Describe Your App

We would like to build an app that will ask our website visitors what they would like to build. It will be called "Build an App", and will walk the visitors through the beginning steps of defining an App. It will ask questions that can be answered by a non-IT professional, and will provide helpful tips on how to complete the questions. The result will be an overview of an App that the visitor can use as a road map to build the App or to get quotes from an App provider. Our goal in providing this is to be helpful in the App definition process in the hopes that MBI will be considered as a partner to develop the App.

What Information will be used by the App?

All information will be collected from the App user.

What Information will be Generated?

All responses from the App user will be saved in a database and used to compile a project overview that can be used in a variety of ways.

What App Communication will occur?

At the completion of the App, the visitor will be able to view their response and have it sent to them in an email. It will demonstrate the ability to send emails and create PDF documents. The user will also have the option to ask MBI to call to discuss their project.
